Dear FitzGerald,

Should we not have a meeting of the Fishery Committee before Green takes any steps at all? otherwise one member of a Committee would be acting without the cognizance of the Committee although the latter would be morally responsible for what is done or not-done.

I am now looking up what has been done in the U.S. & have ordered the "Report of the Commissioners of Sea Fisheries of the United Kingdom - 1861" - i.e.
Keeley's Commission.

I also have the Reports of the Irish Fish Commission. The latter is most instructive from a negative point of view, proving how arid the performance of a bureau may be.

I will make a point of attending any time you & Mrs may fix.

Yrs. very faithfully -

Alfred P. Haddon
