Dear George

There's to be a sort of a jubilee performance here at the opening of the Students Union on Tuesday the 19th by the L^d. Lieutenant, consisting of a reception to people in general that afternoon; a thing called a Symposium in the evening by the Pres^d of the Ulster Medical (Prof Cunningham) in honour of Lord Lister; a meeting in the new Pathological & Laboratories on Wednesday morning - a dinner of graduates on Wednesday evening and at home to the students in the Union Buildings on Thursday evening, and a dance, given by the students on Friday evening.

You will get an invitation to the first of these in the course of a day or two; Lord Kelvin will be here, and I thought maybe you would like to see them, the rest of the performances (except the Symposium) will be poor enough.
I am entitled to bring you to the Symposium, and the ^{at home} the invitations to the dance aren't out yet, so I don't know their terms.
I was lazy about asking you to come, but Annie says you ought to. If you will, come with Harriette, we should both be very glad to see you anyhow, you know.

Fred. Purser, ~~and~~ Cunningham and Bernard are coming.
I see D. Stubbs' death in today's paper — doesn't that make Williamson a Senior?

I don't know yet whether I can get you a place at the dinner; I was so busy with committees diverse and sundry today that I couldn't get to see the Sec. to
